

CONTRIBUTORS

Cameron G.W. Crawford, Michigan State University: a 2021 graduate from Bloomfield Hills, Michigan, Cameron majored in history with a minor in Asian studies. His academic interests are broad, but generally fall in the scope of 19th to mid-20th century religious/philosophical movements, genealogy, and historiography. Since graduation, Cameron has been at work on an intersecting biography of Mary Baker Eddy, Ellen G. White, and H.P. Blavatsky. In addition, he has made plans for a genealogical excursion to southeast Kentucky, and will be traveling to Europe in this pursuit as well.

Andreas Bonnet, King's College London: a recent graduate from Versailles, France who completed his studies with a double major in war studies and history. His research interests are rather diverse and range from early-19th century Napoleonic military history to 19th century nation-building mechanisms. He plans to earn a masters' degree in public policy and work in government in France, and to pursue a PhD in history later in his career.

Jack Lucas, Southern Methodist University: a senior studying history and political communication. Originally from Johnston, Iowa, Jack plans to attend law school in the fall of 2021. His historical interests include legal history, the American presidency, and disaster reaction.

Ford Mozingo, The University of Alabama: from Montgomery, Alabama, Ford graduated in May of 2021. He majored in history while minoring in Spanish and global and cultural perspectives. His historical interests include American political and military history, as well as the history of Alabama. Ford began his first year as a student at the University of Alabama School of Law in August of 2021.

Sarah Hess, University of the Pacific: born and raised in the Bay Area, California, Sarah obtained her bachelor's degree in history and a minor in pre-law this May. She chose to study history because it tells the story of civilization, and her favorite areas to examine are World War II and feudal Japan. Sarah has recently accepted a job working in legal at a San Francisco hedge fund, and is looking forward to pursuing a law degree in the future.